TRIUMPH LEARNING ANNOUNCES READINESS FOR COMMON CORE— A DIGITAL BOOKSHELF CONTAINING INSTRUCTION, PRACTICE, AND ASSESSMENT RESOURCES WITH REAL-TIME DATA CAPABILITIES

Bestselling ELA and Math Products Now Accessible Online

New York, NY, November 2012—In response to customer demand, Triumph Learning has made available online a comprehensive resource library of proven ELA and math content for grades 3-8. Readiness for Common Core contains hundreds of highly effective lessons and practice sessions, and is entirely teacher-driven and facilitated. Assessment is robust, with two-dozen ready-made benchmark, domain, and summative tests, and a build-a-test feature that allows creation of original assessments. Thousands of questions—a minimum of 10 per standard—are included in the Readiness item bank. Up-to-the-minute data allows educators to analyze items and sort results in meaningful ways—by lesson, assessment, class, or student—providing educators the capability to track growth and proficiency. Of critical importance to users is the ability to differentiate instruction with ease. Access to grade levels 3-8 for every bestselling series means multiple selections to support individual learning needs—all indexed by Common Core Standard, academic topic, and popular terms.

Educators appreciate the versatility of Readiness for Common Core. James Aldinger, Title I Director of Tennessee's Shelby County Schools, long-time Triumph Learning Coach book users, is among them: "We're excited to see that Readiness for Common Core allows teacher-facilitated instruction and assessment, and that it supplies specific data on class and individual student progress. This digital program gives educators the ability to pinpoint differentiation for their students." Interactive practice can be assigned electronically to students—appropriately-leveled independent work comes to individuals privately—or displayed with lessons on class whiteboards. Alternatively, teachers may elect to print PDFs of lessons and practice. Methods of teaching, practicing, testing, and reporting are entirely at the discretion of the instructor.

Triumph Learning is delighted to deliver this rich digital resource to the fingertips of teachers, smoothing the transition to the new Common Core State Standards and enabling standards mastery for all.
